DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 1, lines 4-5, from the language of the claim it is not clear whether the position of error K1 is known from the beginning of the searching process or a search has been performed to find the position of error bit K1. If the first interpretation of Examiner from the claim is correct then the claim is inconsistent with Applicant's invention.
2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 1, lines 7-8, limitation "the slipped block being another set of bits where each bit is shifted relatively to a corresponding bit of the searching block" is vague and indefinite. Because the language of the claim is not consistent with the language used in invention's disclosure. From the above limitation, it appears that searching block has been compared to slipped block to find out that each bit is shifted relatively to a corresponding bit of the searching block, however in the specification the signaling block (which has been interpreted as searching block in view of inconsistency between the language of the claim and the language of invention's disclosure) has been compared to a sampling block and not to the adjacent block (slipped block). The language of the claim is so vague and indefinite which precludes the Examiner from performing a reasonable search.

3. Claims 12-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 12, lines 6-7, from the language of the claim it is not clear whether the position of error K1 is known from the beginning of the searching process or a search has been performed to find the position of error bit K1. If the first interpretation of Examiner from the claim is correct then the claim is inconsistent with Applicant's invention.

4. Claims 12-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 12, lines 9-10, limitation "the slipped block being another set of bits where each bit is shifted relatively to a corresponding bit of the searching block" is vague and indefinite. Because the language of the claim is not consistent with the language used in invention's disclosure. From the above limitation it appears that searching block has been compared to slipped block, however in the specification the signaling block (which has been interpreted as searching block in view of inconsistency between the language of the claim and language of the invention's disclosure) has been compared to sampling block. The language of the claim is so vague and indefinite which precludes the Examiner from performing a reasonable search.

5. Claims 23 and 25-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 23, lines 8-9, from the language of the claim it is not clear whether the position of error K1 is known from the beginning of the searching process or a search has been performed to find the position of error bit K1. If the first interpretation of Examiner from the claim is correct then the claim is inconsistent with Applicant's invention.

6. Claims 23 and 25-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. As to claim 23, lines 11-13, limitation "the slipped block being another set of bits where each bit is shifted relatively to a corresponding bit of the searching block" is vague and indefinite. Because the language of the claim is not consistent with the language used in invention's disclosure. From the above limitation it appears that searching block has been compared to slipped block, however in the specification the signaling block (which has been interpreted as searching block in view of inconsistency between the language of the claim and language of the invention's disclosure) has been compared to sampling block. The language of the claim is so vague and indefinite which precludes the Examiner from performing a reasonable search.

7. Claims 23 and 25-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. See MPEP § 2172.01. In claim 23, there is no structural relationship between the limitations.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
